

Jean Prouvé - Cité Armchair by Vitra 2002

1930 Cité Universitaire Nancy

details

The Cité armchair is an early masterpiece by the French designer and engineer Jean Prouvé.

Designed in 1930 for a competition to furnish the student residence halls at the Cité Universitaire in Nancy, the Cité armchair is one of Jean Prouvé's masterpieces. Prouvé himself used this dynamic looking armchair – with distinctive runners made of powder-coated sheet steel and broad leather belts for armrests – in the living room of his own home. Generous dimensions and inviting upholstery contribute to the great comfort of Cité.
